

I create bespoke, non-religious humanist wedding ceremonies for non-religious couples wanting a unique, entirely personal experience.

I am one of the few full time Celebrants in the country and have led 150+ weddings. There are 40+ pages of testimonials on my site: www.yourthreedays.com

YouGov research shows 15 million people in Britain have attended a humanist ceremony of some sort. They are more popular than ever before.

Humanist weddings are currently legally binding in 7 countries (including Scotland) but not yet in England - however, the relationship between a legal ceremony and separate humanist wedding is not complicated.

A minimal Registrar ceremony can take around 5 minutes (not including admin time). You do not have to have elaborate vows or exchange rings. A humanist wedding, by contrast, is often a life-changing experience.

Most sort 'the paperwork' separately and before their humanist wedding but there are various options. Having two ceremonies does not detract from the humanist ceremony - usually the opposite is true.

These ceremonies can be many things: authentic, thought-provoking, traditional or modern, moving and amusing. They are not 'alternative', 'New Age' or pagan.

I have led ceremonies in the grandest of high-profile venues to the wildest of natural locations – and everywhere in between.

Humanist weddings can take place in licensed premises, but don't need a licence to happen, creating exciting new possibilities for clients/venues alike.

You do not have to be a humanist to have a humanist ceremony but it is important my clients feel well represented - humanism.org.uk offers an excellent introduction.

'Where on earth do I begin? There are not enough superlatives to describe how we feel both about the ceremony you gave us and yourself as a person.'

'We can't thank you enough. You're brilliant - the ceremony was everything we could have wished for. So many people told us it was the best wedding ceremony they had ever been a part of: the perfect mix of love, sincerity and humour. It was magical.'

Jo and Sam

No matter how beautiful the flowers, how delicious the food or how stunning the venue, ultimately what makes any wedding the best it can be is emotion. Capturing, harnessing and celebrating emotion is my stock in trade.

When a decision is made to make a bespoke ceremony the heart and soul of a wedding day, an extraordinary experience becomes possible: an experience that inspires all involved in a genuine, powerful and long-lasting way. It takes a little time, care and effort, but the return on that investment often far exceeds people's expectations. There is simply nothing else like a Your Three Days wedding ceremony. They can make all the difference in the world.

'From the very beginning your enthusiasm and passion was so exciting and inspiring. The ceremony you wrote and the way you delivered it was PERFECT. EVERYONE was talking about it/you for days! It was everything we hoped for and more.'

Anna and Ben

I work closely with a wide variety of non-religious couples, of all ages, personalities and backgrounds, to create a bespoke ceremony that is entirely theirs. Some are just starting out, some already have families, some have been together most of their lives. These ceremonies capture their voices, their style and their love, exactly. It is everything a wedding should be, but unlike any other ceremony there has ever been.

'The highlight of the whole wedding was the ceremony - it was absolutely amazing. Your delivery was brilliant. We deliberated pretty much every decision about our wedding and looked at countless options for most things. You were absolutely the best choice we made.'

Ayesha and Richard

Sometimes people think Humanist ceremonies are 'new', yet Humanism is as old as philosophy. They may be familiar with possible elements, like hand-fasting, but that's only one of a myriad of options. They may not have even heard of a Humanist ceremony before, but once they understand all it can be, they cannot imagine anything better.

'We are so glad we found you and made the decision to prioritise the ceremony. It set the tone for a wonderful day to follow (not to mention the way we want to live our lives together). Thank you so much for all your time, wisdom and direction throughout the process. It has been a real pleasure to take this journey with you.'

Jess and James

'Our heads are still spinning with the wonderfulness of it all: the best day of our lives. You were a massive part of that! The ceremony was overwhelmingly beautiful, barely a dry eye. No amount of thanks is enough. You are so, so good at what you do.'

Caro and Karen

More and more venue owners, wedding co-ordinators and photographers are realising the ability these ceremonies have to complement, add to and develop all they have to offer. An outstanding Your Three Days ceremony can enhance the entire day – and everyone benefits from that.

'Without you, this day was not possible: so perfect to everything our family needed we were able to witness, enjoy and remember every second. Thank you from the bottom of 4 very, very happy hearts.'

Jules and Ric

While so many aspects of a wedding day have already been exploited to the max, these remarkable ceremonies remain a rich source of untapped potential. If you'd like to know more, all you need to do is get in touch. I will be delighted to hear from you.

'We will never forget you and what you did for us. I hope that you can fully understand how much you made our wedding and lives come to life.'
